1. Introduction

- 1.1. A general overview of our approach to records management is outlined in our Information Management Policy. The aim of the Retention and Disposal Policy is to outline the ICO's approach to managing the retention and secure disposal of our information in line with our business requirements and legal obligations.
- 1.2. There are various pieces of legislation which outline retention requirements. These include, but are not limited to:
  - Freedom of Information Act 2000 – including the Code of Practice Section 46 (FOIA)
  - The UK General Data Protection Regulations (the UK GDPR)
  - Data Protection Act 2018 (DPA 18)
  - Public Records Act 1958
  - Limitation Act 1980
  - Inquiries Act 2005
- 1.3. The requirements outlined in this policy have been developed to provide a consistent approach to the retention and disposal of corporate information. This policy applies to all physical and digital information, regardless of storage location.

2. Roles and Responsibilities

- 2.1. All ICO staff are responsible for managing the information they create and receive as part of their normal daily business activities and should familiarise themselves with the Retention and Disposal Schedule.
- 2.2. Specific records management responsibilities are also allocated to individual staff members and various committees and boards across our corporate structure, as detailed in our Information Risk Management Network (IRMN). The following roles have additional responsibilities around retention and disposal:
  - 2.2.1 Information Asset Owners (IAO): IAOs ensure that all assets under their control are following retention schedule rules. They have ownership of the assets and are therefore responsible for ensuring adherence to the Retention and Disposal Schedule. IAOs are responsible for authorising the destruction of information when required.

- 2.2.2 Information Asset Managers (IAM): IAMs assist the IAOs in their role and are operationally responsible for the upkeep of information assets, including adherence to the Retention and Disposal Schedule.
- 2.2.3. Local Information Management Officer (LIMO): LIMO monitor compliance with the retention schedule, whilst encouraging and working with staff to ensure ongoing conformity. Alongside this, the LIMO reports to the IAM and IAO on compliance with the schedule within their team. They also need to implement any changes required to the schedule in accordance with ICO procedure and work to improve compliance with the schedule where needed.
- 2.2.4. Local Asset Administrator (LAA): LAA work with staff directly to ensure the retention schedule is adhered to, undertaking some work disposing of information and recording disposal where needed. The LIMO is likely to delegate instructions to the LAA to assist in improving compliance with the schedule.
- 2.3. More information about the responsibilities of individuals in the IRMN can be found in our Roles and Responsibilities guidance.

3. Retention Periods

- 3.1. Our retention periods are driven by legislation and/or business need. If there is no legally defined retention period for corporate information it is the responsibility of the relevant IAO(s) to determine an appropriate retention period. The Information Management team must agree the proposed retention period to ensure:
- Retention triggers are clear and consistent
  - Retention periods are not excessively long and are consistent with the rest of the schedule
  - The correct retention source has been identified

- IAO approval has been obtained for any new entries with an action of 'destroy'.
- 3.2. We assign clearly defined retention periods to our information to ensure it is kept for the appropriate length of time. Each retention period has three elements:
- Trigger – the action which begins the retention period (e.g., 'End of Financial Year' or 'End of Employment')
  - Retention period – the length of time the information will be kept
  - Action – either 'review' or 'destroy'.
    - If the action is 'review' the information must be reviewed to ensure it is no longer required before destruction. Outcomes of a review may be – dispose, mark for permanent preservation, or temporary extension to review again at a future date.
    - If the action is 'destroy', this means the information can be destroyed without being reviewed in line with ICO procedure. IAO approval is not needed prior to destruction if the action is 'destroy.'

4. Retention and Disposal Schedule

- 4.1. Our Retention and Disposal Schedule sets out our retention periods. Information must be kept for the length of time defined in the schedule unless there is a legal requirement to destroy it sooner.
- 4.2. The Schedule is arranged by function, rather than by directorate. By following a functional approach we can ensure that the schedule will not need to change in the event of organisational restructures and that information held by multiple directorates is only captured on the schedule once.
- 4.3. Any proposed additions or changes to retention periods must be sent through to the Information Management & Compliance team. Significant changes may need to be signed off by the relevant IAO(s).
- 4.4. The schedule is reviewed on a regular basis by the Information Management & Compliance team with input from the IRMN. Any queries about the schedule should be raised with the Information Management & Compliance team.

Back to Top

5. Weeding

- 5.1. Not all information we create has long-term value. Our Retention and Disposal Schedule does not include redundant, obsolete or trivial (ROT) information. Such information should be identified by directorates regularly weeding their information and then destroyed. Approval or sign-off to delete ROT information is not required.
- 5.2. 'Weeding' does not apply to corporate records included in the Schedule, which should only be destroyed when they have reached the end of their retention period.
- 5.3. Information should be weeded for two reasons:
  - To ensure that we are not wasting money or space (either digital or physical) by storing ROT information.
  - To make the process of reviewing and appraising records easier. Sifting through low-value records makes this process more time-consuming.
- 5.4. Below are common examples of information which are usually of limited value once they are no longer in use and can be weeded through routine housekeeping. This should not be seen as an exhaustive list.

Drafts - Draft documents lose value and can become obsolete once a final version has been published. However, on some occasions where significant changes or deviation have taken place, a draft may be retained to show how the final decision was made.

Trivial emails - Outlook has an automated retention policy that retains emails for 12 months. It is important that emails containing information of value are saved to EDRM to provide a record of decisions made or action taken. Where the content of emails contains information with no long term value, these can be left in personal inboxes for disposal after 12 months.

Duplicates – We should not retain any duplications. Duplications can lead to multiple versions of information which can cause confusion.

Research Material – Whether developing policy or preparing to give advice, research material may be created or collected such as notes or copies of guidance from external organisations.

Limited Long Term Operational Value – Some information may be of importance for only a short period of time and then become redundant. This information should be weeded as soon as it is no longer required.

5.5. Weeding should be done on a regular basis to ensure that clutter does not build up over time. It is up to each team to decide a reasonable schedule for such housekeeping, based on their resources and the amount of information they generate. IAOs should encourage weeding on a regular basis.

5.6. Weeding should cover all information the directorate stores, paper or digital, regardless of the system it is held on. This includes personal drives and desktops.

6. Reviewing Information

6.1. When information has reached the end of its retention period it may need to be reviewed to ensure that it is no longer required. Information that has an action of 'destroy' on the Schedule can be disposed of securely without a review and without IAO approval. Where possible, automated retention rules should be enabled in our digital systems to facilitate this.

6.2. Where a review is required the IAO assisted by the IAM and LIMOs should consider the relevant information and decide whether it can be destroyed. If a high volume of information is being reviewed at once then this should be conducted at a macro level, i.e., not document by document. If information is marked for permanent preservation or subject to a legal hold it may be necessary to review every document.

6.3. Information should only be retained beyond its retention period in limited circumstances. When conducting a review, the following factors should be taken into account:

- Is the information required to fulfil statutory or regulatory requirements?

- Is the information relevant to ongoing litigation / subject to a legal hold?
  - Is the information the subject of an information request or relate to information recently disclosed in a response?
  - Is retention required to evidence events in the case of a dispute?
  - Does the information fall under the selection criteria for permanent preservation and transfer to The National Archives (TNA)? See section 8 of this policy for more detail on permanent preservation.
  - Is the information required for a Public Inquiry?
  - Is there another demonstrable business need for retaining the information?
- 6.4. If the information is deemed to still be required, an extension of two years is given, the information needs to be reviewed again at the end of the extension. The only exception to this is where the information has been marked for permanent preservation (see section 8).
- 6.5. The retention period must not be extended indefinitely. You should contact the Information Management & Compliance team for advice if you still intend to keep the information after applying the two-year extension period.

Back to Top

7. Destruction

- 7.1. When records are no longer required by the organisation and do not have archival value they should be securely destroyed.
- 7.2. If the action on the retention schedule is 'review', destruction of records should not proceed without approval from the relevant IAO. A record containing what has been destroyed, when it was destroyed and the individual who authorised the destruction should be created and retained by the relevant directorate. A template Record of Destruction can be found here (please note that this link is only accessible to ICO staff).
- 7.3. If the action on the retention schedule is 'destroy', a Record of Destruction does not need to be created.
- 7.4. Records should be destroyed securely and the method chosen should reflect the sensitivity of the contents. For example, if records containing special category data or protectively marked papers have been shredded, the shredded paper should be handled securely and not dumped. Records awaiting destruction must be stored securely.

- 7.5. Paper records should be placed into the confidential waste bins and documents stored on electronic systems should be deleted, including back-ups. Deletions should be carried out by someone with appropriate access to the system from which they are being deleted. Digital documents should be deleted and not overwritten.
- 7.6. When information is destroyed, all copies of the information should be destroyed at the same time (both digital and physical). Information cannot be considered to have been completely destroyed unless all copies have been destroyed as well.

Back to Top

8. Permanent Preservation

- 8.1. Documents should be selected for permanent preservation if they meet the criteria specified in section 14 of the Retention Schedule in Annex B.
- 8.2. Documents which have been marked for permanent preservation must not be destroyed. Any information which is selected for preservation should be clearly marked to ensure it is not destroyed accidentally.

Back to Top

9. Legal Holds

- 9.1. As a public authority the ICO is responsible for ensuring that any information under a legal hold is identified. A legal hold is the process of preserving all forms of information relevant to legal proceedings. If a legal hold is in place there is a freeze on the destruction of any relevant material held by the organisation.
- 9.2. A legal hold might be required if information relates to a Public Inquiry or if it pertains to any litigation that the ICO is involved with, such as an FOI Complaint which is subject to appeal. If you are unsure whether information in your possession falls under a legal hold, contact the Information Management Service for advice.

- 9.3. When information falls under a legal hold it should be clearly marked as such so it is not accidentally included in any scheduled destruction.
- 9.4. Under the Inquiry Rules 2006 those responsible for public records have a duty to make arrangements for the selection of any and all information they hold which contains or may contain content as identified in relation to an investigation. Appendix A shows the Public Inquiries that are currently open in the UK, or due to be opened soon.
- 9.5. Following the closure of the inquiry, the information should be reviewed to determine how long it needs to be retained.
